STANDARDS ACT, 1993
STANDARDS MATTERS

In terms of the Standards Act, 1993 (Act No. 29 of 1993), the Council of the South African Bureau of Standards has acted in regard to standards in the manner set out in the Schedules to this notice.

All South African standards that were previously published by the South African Bureau of Standards with the prefix "SABS" have been redesignated as South African national standards and are now published by Standards South Africa (a division of SABS) with the prefix "SANS".

A list of all existing South African national standards was published by Government Notice No. 1373 of 8 November 2002.

In the list of SANS standards below, the equivalent SABS numbers, where applicable, are given below the new SANS numbers for the sake of convenience. Standards that were published with the "SABS" prefix are listed as such.

SCHEDULE 1: ISSUE OF NEW STANDARDS

The standards mentioned have been issued in terms of section 16(3) of the Act.

Standard No. and year	Title, scope and purport
SANS 164-6:2006	Plug and socket-outlet systems for household and similar purposes for use in South Africa – Part 6: Round two-pole systems, 10 A 250 V a.c. and 16 A 250 V a.c., for connection of class II equipment. Covers the rating and dimensions of round two-pole plugs and socket-outlets, rated 10 A 250 V a.c. and 16 A 250 V a.c., without earthing contact, for connection of class II equipment for household and similar purposes in South Africa.
SANS 414:2006	Coal and coke – Analysis and testing – Higher rank coal ash and coke ash – Major and minor elements – Acid digestion/flame atomic absorption spectrometric method. Sets out methods for the determination of silicon, aluminium, iron, calcium, magnesium, sodium, potassium, titanium and manganese in higher rank coal ash and coke ash by flame atomic absorption spectrometry after acid digestion.
SANS 6971:2006/ ISO 6971:2002	Cranked-link drag chains of welded construction, attachments and sprockets. Specifies the characteristics of cranked-link drag chains of welded construction suitable for conveying bulk materials, together with associated attachments and chain sprockets. The chain dimensions specified ensure interchangeability of both complete chains and individual links for repair purposes. This standard is applicable to sprockets with between 5 and 20 teeth. Specifications are also given for five types of attachment for use with the conveyor chains conforming to this standard.
SANS 6972:2006/ ISO 6972:2002	Cranked-link mill chains of welded construction, attachments and sprockets. Specifies the characteristics of cranked-link mill chains of welded construction suitable for conveying bulk materials, together with associated attachments and chain sprockets. The chain dimensions specified in this standard ensure interchangeability of both complete chains and individual links for repair purposes. This standard is applicable to sprockets with between 5 and 36 teeth. Specifications are also given for eight types of attachment for use with the conveyor chains conforming to this standard.
SANS 6973:2006/ ISO 6973:1986	Drop-forged rivetless chains for conveyors. American National standard, ANSI B2922M, deals with three types of rivetless chain, i.e. "regular", "X" and "modified X" types. This standard deals with chains similar to the "X" type with an assured dimension on the centre link similar to the "modified X" type. The chains specified in this standard are intended to be used in place of all three types of ANSI chains. By adhering to the dimensions specified in this standard, it is possible to ensure that parts of chains of different origins can be joined together. It should be noted, however, that the pin should be of the same origin as the side bars. It is recognized that methods other than "drop"-forging may be used to manufacture these chains, e.g. air, steam, press or other forging methods.

The subsequent parts of ISO/IEC 18000 provide the specific values for definition of the air interface parameters for a particular frequency or type of air interface, from which compliance (or non-compliance) with this part of SANS 18000 can be established. Provides description of example conceptual architectures in which these air interfaces are often to be utilized.

1. Background and Introduction

1. On 3 May 2005, the Communications Users Association of South Africa ("CUASA") lodged a complaint with the Independent Communications Authority of South Africa ("Authority"). The complaint related to the high costs of mobile communication services in South Africa.

2. CUASA specifically requested ICASA to launch investigations into the following:

The cause of the high cost of mobile calls in general including the following:

- Why the introduction of Cell C in the mobile market did not give rise to the reduction in costs
- Whether there is sufficient competition in the mobile market
- Why an international landline call to a destination is less expensive than a national call to a mobile phone as compared to other jurisdictions
- The high cost of sending SMS's compared to a one minute international call from a national landline
- The different interconnection charges between mobile to mobile and mobile to fixed line
- The cost of South African mobile roaming charges, and
- The high costs of mobile prepaid rates.

3. Various other individual complaints regarding the high costs of communication services had been received by the Authority. President Thabo Mbeki, in his State of the Nation address in 2005, also highlighted as a government priority, the intention to address the high costs of communication services in South Africa.

4. In view of the above and as the complaint was not lodged in terms of section 100 of the Act, the Authority decided to hold a general section 27 process under the Telecommunications Act, No. 103 of 1996, ("1996 Act") which was the governing legislation at the time, as a means to best fulfil the objects of the Act. Section 27 provided for the Authority from time to time to conduct an enquiry into any matter relevant to: -

- (a) the achievement of the objects of section 2;
- (b) the performance of its functions in terms of this Act.

The relevant objects of the Act, are to, inter alia:

- (a) promote the universal and affordable provision of telecommunication services;
- (d) encourage investment and innovation in the telecommunication industry;
- (j) ensure fair competition within the telecommunications industry; and
- (m) protect the interests of telecommunications users and consumers.

5. On 28 July 2005 the Authority published a discussion document ("DD") in Government Gazette No. 27854 as provided for by section 27 of the 1996 Act. The purpose of the DD was to solicit written submissions from a wide variety of stakeholders including individuals, consumer interest groups, service providers and operators.

6. On 9 September 2005, the Authority received twenty (20) written submissions, eleven (11) of which requested an opportunity to make oral presentations.
7. The ICASA Council appointed a special committee in terms of section 17 of the ICASA Act (Act No.13 of 2000) to conduct public hearings which were held on 18 and 19 May 2006.
8. Following the hearings in May 2006, the Electronic Communications Act (No. 36 of 2005) ("EC Act") and Independent Communications Authority of South Africa Act (No. 3 of 2006) ("ICASA Act") were proclaimed.
9. The ICASA Act provides for additional powers of the Authority in respect to matters of process and procedure. The EC Act repeals the 1996 Act and also establishes new provisions with respect to rulemaking and policy matters that the Authority may or must deal with, and confers new powers on the Authority to regulate in accordance with the objects of the EC Act.
10. The transitional provisions of Chapter 15 of the EC Act protect the legal status of all processes that were begun under the 1996 Telecommunications Act. Specifically, section 92(7) of the ECA provides that:

"Any current applications, process, recommendations and regulations pending before the Authority or the Minister upon the coming into force of this Act must be considered to have been submitted in accordance with the provisions of this Act and must be considered in terms of the relevant sections of this Act."
11. As the section 27 process was not completed by the time of proclamation of the EC Act, it is clear from a reading of the EC Act that section 92(7) is applicable in this regard. Therefore the findings and conclusions document has been finalized in terms of EC Act and ICASA Act.
12. As a consequence of the repeal of the 1996 Act by the EC Act, section 27 of the 1996 Act has been replaced by section 4B and C of the ICASA Act.
13. The powers to conduct an inquiry provided for by section 4C are similar to that of section 27 save where there are additional requirements introduced.
14. The findings and conclusion document has been drafted taking into account all the relevant provision of the EC Act.

2. Findings

Having considered the written and oral submissions and presentations from all interested parties and the current regulatory framework, in terms section 4C (6) of the ICASA Act, the Authority makes the following findings:

2.1. Mobile Fees and Charges

2.1.1. The current framework for regulation in respect of mobile prices that is in use in South Africa requires mobile operators to lodge tariffs or fees for services with the Authority before they may charge any tariffs or fees for services.

2.1.2. Increases in any existing tariff plans cannot be greater than the percentage year on year increase in the Consumer Price Index (CPI). Where the Authority disallows or delays the proposed tariff increase, it must provide written reasons to the licensee for its decision.

2.1.3. It is the Authority's view that this framework for fees and tariffs is not adequate in that the CPI criterion serves as a major decision-making tool even though certain considerations such as the economic and social impact associated with tariff increases are taken into account in the analysis of tariff applications.

2.1.4. Chapter 10 of the EC Act deals with competition matters wherein the Authority is required to define relevant market segments in the electronic communications sector the primary purpose being to impose regulatory measures in cases where the prevalence of significant market power is established.

2.1.5. The Authority will commence the process of defining markets as required by Chapter 10 of the EC Act. In this regard, on or before 31 January 2007, the Authority will publish a discussion document for public comment to solicit written comments from all interested parties.

2.1.6. The Authority has concluded that in order for mobile prices in South Africa to be reduced, the Authority has to turn its attention to examine wholesale mobile and fixed line call termination charges. This has to be undertaken in accordance with Chapter 10 of the EC Act.

2.1.7. In this regard a discussion document regarding wholesale call termination will be published on or before 31 January 2007 soliciting written representations.

2.1.8. This approach will allow the Authority to deal with issues of alleged significant market power and pricing in a holistic manner.
