Definitions

1. In these Regulations any word or expression to which a meaning has been assigned in the Act or in the Regulations on Safety Standards and Regulatory Practices (Government Notice No. R. 388 in Government Gazette 28755 of 28 April 2006) shall have the meaning so assigned and unless the context otherwise indicates-

“external events” means events originating outside the nuclear installation with the potential to cause adverse conditions or even damage to safety important structures, systems or components;

“infrastructure” means all infrastructure and services, outside the site boundary, necessary for the implementation of an emergency plan, including public communication, protection of the environment and property, transport, personnel, radiation monitoring, decontamination, mass care and medical care.

“internal events” means events originating inside the nuclear installation with the potential to cause adverse conditions or even damage to safety important structures, systems or components;

“new nuclear installation” means a nuclear installation constructed after the date on which these Regulations come into effect;

“old nuclear installation” means a nuclear installation constructed before the date on which these Regulations come into effect;

“probabilistic risk limit” means probabilistic risk limits stipulated in Regulations R388;

“source term” means the amount and isotopic composition of material released or postulated to be released from a nuclear installation or action as well as the release characteristics and associated data required for the impact analysis;

“stochastic effects” means health effects, the probability of occurrence of which is greater for a higher radiation dose and the severity of which if it occurs is independent of dose and generally occurs without a threshold;

“the Act” means the National Nuclear Regulator Act (Act No. 47 of 1999).

Purpose and scope of regulations

2. (1) The purpose of these Regulations is to establish regulatory requirements for the siting of new nuclear installations.

(2) The requirements contained in these Regulations apply to applications for nuclear installation licences for the siting of new nuclear installations (NILES) for the purpose of design, construction, operation, decontamination, decommissioning and closure of such nuclear installations.

Requirements for the siting of new nuclear installations

3. Siting factors and criteria must ensure that radiological doses and risks from normal operation and postulated events associated with a nuclear installation will be acceptably low, that natural phenomena and potential man-made hazards will be appropriately accounted for in the design of the nuclear installation, that site characteristics are such that adequate security measures to protect the nuclear installation can be developed, and that physical characteristics unique to the proposed site that could pose a significant impediment to the development of emergency plans are identified.

Factors to be considered when evaluating sites

4. Factors considered in the evaluation of sites must include those relating both to the proposed nuclear installation design and the characteristics specific to the site. It is required that the new nuclear installation reflects through its design, construction and operation an extremely low probability for postulated events that could result in release of quantities of radioactive fission products. In addition, the site location and the engineered features of the nuclear installation included as safety measures against the hazardous consequences of a postulated event must ensure a low risk of public exposure.

Application for nuclear installation licence for siting of new nuclear installation

5. Any person who applies in terms of section 21 of the Act for a nuclear installation licence for the siting of a new nuclear installation must submit, in support of his or her application, a Site Safety Report to the chief executive officer and the Site Safety Report must contain the following:

- (1) Motivation for the choice of the site to ensure a low risk of public exposure from the operation of the nuclear installation;

- (2) a statement as to the proposed use of the site in terms of the scope of technologies being considered for the nuclear installation and use on the site, including where appropriate the maximum thermal power, general design characteristics such as the engineered safety features of the nuclear installations included as safety measures against the hazardous consequences of postulated events, and the layout on the site;
- (3) source term analysis that is representative of the overall potential hazards posed to the public and the environment owing to the range of technologies under consideration for the nuclear installation at the site, taking into consideration a representative scope of internal and external events enveloping all potential technologies of the nuclear installation considered for construction and operation on the site;
- (4) the identification and specification of characteristics of the site in terms of external events of natural origin or human induced occurring in the region of the particular site. The characteristics shall be monitored and the current and future uncertainties discussed. The design of the nuclear installation must take into consideration the identified and analysed external risk events that potentially can lead to radiation exposure.

- (5) a Probabilistic Risk Assessment (PRA) using the source terms referred to above as well as the site-specific environmental data, including meteorology, land use, population demographics, regional development, based on projections to account for the design life of the nuclear installation, to demonstrate compliance with the probabilistic risk limits. The cumulative impact of all nuclear installations planned or existing must be taken into account in this analysis;
- (6) analysis of the impact on the public due to normal operations of the nuclear installations to demonstrate compliance with the dose limits. Such analysis must be carried out taking cognizance of enveloping operational parameters of the potential technologies being considered for the nuclear installations to be constructed and operated on the site;
- (7) analysis to demonstrate the viability of an emergency plan taking into account the above factors, including transport and disaster management infrastructure. This analysis must include the identification and determination of external zones to the site whose sizes must be established based on the source term analysis, PRA and the site specific environmental data indicated above;

- (8) the identification and determination of the external zones for a proposed site including the consideration of the potential for radiological consequences for the public and the environment, arising from accidents at all nuclear installations on the site and in the vicinity, including the proposed new installations, and the feasibility of implementing emergency plans as well as monitoring and protective measures. In determining the external zones, due account must be taken of physical boundaries such as rivers, dams, mountain ranges, as well as municipal boundaries;
- (9) the population density and population distribution and other characteristics of the potentially affected region, taking cognizance of projections to account for the design life of the nuclear installations in terms of an adequate implementation of zones and emergency measures, that are acceptable in terms of keeping the risks to individuals and the population as well as the financial consequences caused by damage and radioactive contamination as low as reasonably achievable;

(10) the identification and determination of the site external zones,
which must include the following:

- (a) the determination of an exclusion zone in accordance with paragraph (8) beyond which no evacuation of members of the public would be required in the event of accidents occurring in the new installations. Within the boundaries of that zone or any intersection with the boundaries that zone, there shall be no members of the public resident, no recreational activities, no commercial activities, or institutions which are not directly linked to the operation of the nuclear installations;
- (b) an overall Emergency Planning Zone (EPZ) of such size that emergency or remedial measures must be considered where the potential exists that any members of the public may receive more than an annual effective dose of 1mSv ;
- (c) a Long Term Protective Action Planning Zone (LPZ), extending beyond the EPZ boundaries, where preparations for effective implementation of protective actions to reduce the risk of stochastic health effects from long term exposure to deposition and ingestion must be developed in advance;

(11) an assessment from the relevant national security authorities on the suitability of the site for the siting of nuclear installations from a security perspective.

(12) a programme to monitor all the site specific characteristics and environmental data necessary for the Site Safety Report, including a programme of reporting to the Regulator.

General requirements

6. (1) All information provided in terms of these Regulations must conform to the provisions of the entire Regulations.

(2) The NILS will stipulate activities on site that are not allowed, including inter alia the construction of a nuclear installation.

(3) A reassessment is required 5 years after the issuance of the NILS

(4). The period of validity of a NILS is 10 years from its date of issue until the issuance of the first licence to construct a nuclear installation on that site.

- (5) The NILS shall refer to the submissions required by paragraph 5, including the data, analyses, commitments and undertakings referred to in these submissions, which will be conditions of licence.

Title

7. These Regulation shall be called the Regulations on Siting of New Nuclear Installations, 2009.

NOTICE 916 OF 2009

INTERNATIONAL TRADE ADMINISTRATION COMMISSION*RESUMPTION OF THE INVESTIGATION INTO THE ALLEGED DUMPING OF DETONATING FUSES AND DELAY DETONATORS (COMMONLY KNOWN AS SHOCKTUBES), ORIGINATING IN OR IMPORTED FROM THE PEOPLE'S REPUBLIC OF CHINA.

On 15 June 2005, the International Trade Administration Commission of South Africa (Commission) formally initiated an investigation into the alleged dumping of detonating fuses and delay detonators (commonly known as shock tubes) originating in or imported from the People's Republic of China (PRC). Notice of the initiation of the investigation was published in Notice No.1099 in Government Gazette No. 27735 dated 8 July 2005.

The investigation was initiated after the Commission decided that African Explosives Ltd (AEL) ( the Applicant) submitted prima facie information that detonating fuses and delay detonators (commonly known as shock tubes) originating in or imported from the People's Republic of China (PRC) were imported into the Southern African Customs Union (SACU) at dumped prices, causing the SACU industry material injury.

In the application, the Applicant indicated that it is the sole producer of the subject product within SACU. It further alleged that domestic selling prices in the PRC were influenced by government intervention. It nominated Ghana as a surrogate country for the purposes of calculating the normal value for the PRC, and stated that Ghana had an industry on the same level of development as that in the PRC. It therefore based the normal value on the domestic selling price in Ghana and provided prices and a letter of co-operation from its sister company in Ghana.

Subsequent to initiation exporters questionnaires and importers questionnaires were sent to the various known interested parties for completion. All the parties that responded in the investigation questioned the suitability of Ghana as a surrogate country.

As a result of the above response, AEL was requested to provide cost build-ups for the models of subject product sold in Ghana. This was provided and it was confirmed that the company in Ghana assembles the shocktube products imported from South Africa and Sweden.

Based on the above information, the Commission found that Ghana does not have a shocktube industry as envisaged in the regulations and that the information provided with regard to normal value in Ghana, could not be used for purposes of the calculation of the dumping margin.

With regard to the Applicant's statement that it is the sole producer of the subject product in SACU, Sasol-Dyno Nobel (SDN) provided information, which was verified, indicating that they did indeed manufacture the product in South Africa.

At its meeting of 16 November 2005, the Commission made a preliminary determination to revoke its decision to initiate the investigation in terms of Section 26(6) of the ITA Act which provides inter alia as follows:

The Commission may amend or revoke a decision or recommendation concerning an application if-

(a) the decision or recommendation was based on incorrect information and the applicant or supplier of the information-

- (i) was responsible for the error in the information; and
- (ii) benefited or could have benefited, from the decision or recommendation;

On 18 November 2005 this determination was conveyed to the Applicant who was given an opportunity to respond. Written and oral representations made to the Commission were considered by it in making its final decision. The Commission noted the arguments raised and accepted that the applicant based its application on information which was reasonably available to it.

The Commission considered that incorrect information that was submitted by the Applicant influenced its decision to initiate the investigation. It therefore made a final decision to invoke section 26(6) of the ITA Act and thus revoke its decision to initiate the investigation into the alleged dumping of detonating fuses and delay detonators (commonly known as shock tubes) originating in or imported from the PRC.

On 27 January 2006 this investigation was terminated through Government Gazette No 28438, notice NO 142 of 2006.

In May 2006 the Applicant applied to the High Court of South Africa (Transvaal Provincial Division) to review and set aside the decision of the Commission. The review application was heard in the Pretoria High Court and the Commission was directed by way of a judgment of the High Court to continue with the investigation.

In order to continue with the investigation as ordered by the High Court, the Applicant was requested to provide the Commission with updated material injury information.

The Applicant provided the Commission with its updated injury information and indicated that the other domestic producer, Sasol Dyno Nobel (SDN), will not cooperate with it in the investigation. SDN also responded to a request from the Commission to provide updated injury information but they indicated that they do not intend supplying updated information.

The updated information supplied by the Applicant was verified.

In accordance with the order of the High Court the Commission hereby wishes to notify all interested parties that the investigation is now being resumed.

In order to obtain the information it deems necessary for its investigation, the Commission will send non-confidential versions of the updated injury information to all known importers and exporters, and known representative associations for comment. The trade representative of the exporting country will also be notified. Importers and other interested parties are invited to contact the Commission as soon as possible in order to determine whether they have been listed and were furnished with the relevant documentation. If not, they should immediately ensure that they are sent copies. Comments have to be submitted and any other representations must be made within the time limit set out below.

PROCEDURES AND TIME LIMITS

The Senior Manager: Trade Remedies I should receive all responses, including non-confidential copies of the responses not later than 30 days from the date hereof, or from the date on which the letter accompanying the abovementioned information was received. The said letter shall be deemed to have been received seven days after the day of its dispatch.

Late submissions will not be accepted except with the prior written consent of the Commission. The Commission will give due consideration to written requests for an extension of not more than 14 days on good cause shown (properly motivated and substantiated), if received prior to the expiry of the original 30-day period. Merely citing insufficient time is not an acceptable reason for extension. Please note that the Commission will not consider requests for extension by the Embassy on behalf of exporters.

The information submitted by any party may need to be verified by the Investigating Officers in order for the Commission to take such information into consideration. The Commission may verify the information at the premises of the party submitting the information to the Commission. Parties should therefore ensure that the information submitted would subsequently be available for verification. It is planned to do the verification of the information submitted by the exporters within three to five weeks subsequent to submission of the information. This period will only be extended if it is not feasible for the Commission to do it within this time period or upon good cause shown, and with the prior written consent of the Commission, which should be requested at the time of the submission. It should be noted that unavailability of, or inconvenience to consultants will not be considered to be good cause.

Parties should also ensure when they engage consultants that they will be available at the requisite times, to ensure compliance with the above time frames. A failure to submit an adequate non-confidential version of the response that complies with the rules set out under the heading Confidential Information will be regarded as an incomplete submission.

Any interested party may request an oral hearing at any stage of the investigation in accordance with Section 5 of the ADR, provided that the party indicates reasons for not relying on written submission only. The Commission may refuse an oral hearing if granting such hearing will unduly delay the finalisation of a determination. Parties requesting an oral hearing shall provide the Commission with a detailed agenda for, and a detailed version, including a non-confidential version, of the information to be discussed at the oral hearing at the time of the request.

If the required information and arguments are not received in a satisfactory form within the time limit specified above, or if verification of the information cannot take place, the Commission may disregard the information submitted and make a finding on the basis of the facts available to it.
